WINTER 1997-'98

Brief Message From The Phi

Homecoming came and went this year, and despite the Big Green's gridiron collapse versus the John Harvards Saturday morning, it proved one of the four best since I've been an undergraduate at Dartmouth. The active Zete brotherhood, fortified by an outstanding influx of alumni, braved the Hanover chill and scored a resounding victory. Victory over what, you ask? I'm not entirely sure, but come Sunday we all felt like we fought something big, and Pig Pen '96, at the crack of dawn, was heard shouting, "I won! Everybody wins!"

It didn't take much to understand why this Homecoming Weekend was so special for me. This will be my final Homecoming as a Dartmouth undergraduate and, of course, as an unelder brother of Zeta Psi (this, brother Spanky '97 assures me). In some respects, it seemed like a grossly unfair situation: this year, in addition to my final undergraduate Homecoming, I will experience my final three Olympics (now two), my final term of Culture Club (not the band), my last Camelot knighting ceremony, and, as brother "Ice-bag" '97 commiseratively pointed out, my last year of living in the house.

Halfway to tears, I recognized one of the beauties of being a brother of Zeta Psi: it is a life sentence. This thought cheered me up. I remembered at Homecoming, how I was surrounded by '97s, '96s, '95s, ... '87s, '86s, '85s... '36s, all of whom converged without hesitation on the one landmark whose spell will forever remain upon them (and all of us). The landmark of which I speak holds some of their fondest memories of their careers in Hanover. More importantly, though, I reflected on how our fraternity is a reality for all of us undergrads because it is a living memory for everyone who has ever waded through sink night. It's an incredible feeling to see all of you come back home to Dartmouth and Zeta Psi, in part because it reminds me and my class (and Spanky) that even after graduation, 8 Webster Avenue will still be our home to come home to, too.

So, please, come by and say hello if you're up here for Carnival, Green Key, or any night. It'll cheer us aging folk up immeasurably. And thanks from all of us up here for your continued interest and support.

Yours in Tau Kappa Phi,
Thomas W. Millett '98

Meet the Pledges:

A Close Look At Three Of Our New Members

In this edition of "Meet the Pledges," we look at three of the people who are pledging this term. Although the pledge class has no official pledge captain, these three new members are considered by most to be the leaders of the '00 class of Zetes.

James "Sweeney" P. Mills comes to us from Exeter, New Hampshire. He is a comparative government major, and he intends to minor in public policy. Sweeney plays for the Dartmouth rugby football club and is the sports editor for the Dartmouth Review. He is also active in community service programs, including the Bookbuddies Program, which helps spread literacy among local children. Sweeney has recently become interested in horse racing and aspires to win the Triple Crown some day.

Daniel "Scooter" J. Powell hails from St. Louis, Missouri—but, as he says, he's no Midwesterner. Scooter is double-majoring in film studies and government, but he still finds time to be quite active in campus life. He is the president of the Jack-o-Lantern, a member of the Dartmouth Film Society Directorate, and one of the Dog Day Players. Scooter is also an undergraduate adviser in Smith Hall, where he oversees the lives of many freshmen. With the exile of Mac at the end of the summer, the house was without a mascot; thankfully, Scooter is now the keeper of Sack, the house fish.

David "Spud" S. Stoner is from Blairstown, New Jersey. He is planning on majoring in government. This year he was selected to be an undergraduate adviser in South Massachusetts Hall. Spud is also active in the Daniel Webster Legal Society, which makes him an extremely popular campus figure. Always seen about town in his already-well-worn Zete cap, Spud promotes a good image for the house. Says one of his pledge brothers, "Spud equals stud!"

These three pledges are fairly representative of the diversity of interests to be found in their class. We wish them all the best for their future as brothers in our fine organization.

Yours in Tau Kappa Phi,
Todd "Shaquille" Griset '99

ALUMNI NEWS

"Last year, 1997, took its toll on me, but apparently with a good result," explains CHARLES A. SCHNEIDER '31 from 453 Fort Hill Rd., Scarsdale, NY 10583. Following a bout with double pneumonia in January and February last year, "Gus" entered Mount Sinai Hospital to undergo a valve replacement and triple-bypass surgery, after which, when he was released in April, he felt great and celebrated his 89th birthday on Father's Day. Gus heard from OZZIE BLISS '31 who is now "living it up in Florida."

Your letters will reach MARVIN CHANDLER '32 at 2727 Calle La Cruz, Carmel, CA 93923.

Don't lose track of retiree HERBERT L. BADGER '38. He makes his home at 5666 E. Hampton, #207, Tucson, AZ 85712.

Fellow Zete JOHN L. COULSON '39 attended the Double Diamond Convention in August '97 and offered this report from the proceedings: "I attended all the board meetings and am happy to report the elder leaders are very, very attentive to the needs and problems of both the active chapters and the actives. What are the concerns? For the undergraduates in no small way—expenses. Other serious concerns on both active and elder levels are alcohol abuse and sexual harassment. One observation—chapters that take advantage of head-quarter's expertise and have good elder support do well. Zeta Psi leadership is excellent and ready to take us into the 21st century. The Psi Epsilon is now one of the oldest surviving chapters and will celebrate its double diamond jubilee in 2003. Why not strive to keep us tops on both the Dartmouth campus and Zeta Psi International?" For much greater detail on the convention highlights, contact John at 16-B Azalea Dr., Orange City, FL 32763. Other Zetes John has heard from include BOB EGELHOFF '38, ROYCE RANDLETT '38, DOUG BRIDGE '41, and BILL COULSON '42, his brother in blood as well as Zeta Psi.

"Lorraine and I traveled to Europe in June '97 with Nancy and CHET BRETT '40," reports SAMUEL C. WILLIAMS JR. '40 of 17 Berrill Farms, Hanover, NH 03766. Sam was expecting to see Chet again at the fall Lehigh game along with Faith and BOB DIBBLE '40.

DONALD W. EDWARDS '47, a physician, resides at 821 S. Peoria Ave., Dixon, IL 61021.

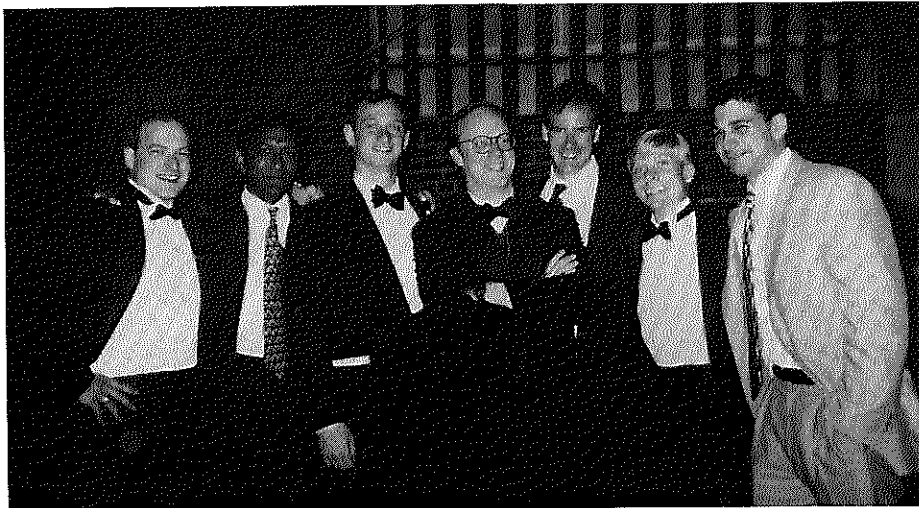

Correspond with WILLIAM B. BRIGANCE '59 at 200 7th Ave., SW, Altoona, IA 50009.

Got down this new address for BRUCE SIGSBEE '69: 2552 Western Ave., Newburgh, ME 04444.

THEODORE C. WEYMOUTH '79 and his wife, Lucy, are the proud parents of Kelly Clark Weymouth, born November 14, weighing seven pounds, 15 ounces, and 21 inches long. Kelly joins her older sister, Kristen. All are well and living at 5425 30th Place, NW, Washington, DC 20015.

"I recently played golf with STAN WILLIAMS, FRANK DAVIS, and MATT WILSON, all '83s—the sport of the '90s for late baby boomers such as us," explains PETER D. BURACK '83 from 48 Random Farms Dr., Chappaqua, NY 10514. "After hacking up the course, I think we should all return to the sports we pursued in college."

CHRISTOPHER A. DOWLING '84 is now living in Freeport, Maine (when we get an updated address, we'll pass it along), with his wife, Kitty, and their two sons. He is practicing dermatology in Portland. He filled us in on his two brothers—JOHN DOWLING '86 is still head coach of freestyle skiing at Breckenridge, Colorado, living with his canine companion, Dar, and TONY DOWLING '90 has been practicing real estate law at Goodwin, Procter and Hoar on Fleet Street in Boston for a couple of years and lives in the North End. Tony takes time out to ski at Sugarloaf and has been sighted playing golf at

The seven outstanding Zetes (standing out on the balcony of New York City's Cosmopolitan Club) at WAYNE WEIL's ('88) wedding. Left to right: JAMEY SAEGER '87, NARESH WIGNARAJAH '88, Wayne, DICK MANUEL '88, MATT STREETER '88, H. RANDALL MORGAN '87, and JEFF LAZARUS '89. A great time was had by all!

Black Point Country Club in Scarborough, Maine. Chris also said that TOM RYAN '81 is a cardiologist in Portland and that ROB LEVINE '84 is a lawyer and lives on an island in Casco Bay.

THOMAS O. OBLAK '88, a manager at Andersen Consulting in Hartford, Connecticut, picks up his mail at 279 Hubbard St., Glastonbury, CT 06033. If you're online, you can e-mail a message to thomas.o.oblak@ac.com. Tom adds, "Despite recent news of weddings (BERNIE KALMBACH '88 and WAYNE WEIL '88) and kids (PATRICK RUTTY '88 and ROSS WALLER '89), all is still status quo for me. Hope all is well with everyone else. Feel free to invite yourselves to Connecticut if the urge strikes."

When last we heard from MATTHEW W. SONSINI '88 he was planning a September '97 marriage to Lisa Sobrato and was expecting several Zetes to be in attendance. Send best wishes to Matt at Cooley Godward, LLP, 5 Palo Alto Square, 4th Fl., Palo Alto, CA 94306. Contact Matt by e-mail at sonsinimw@cooley.com.

WAYNE S. WEIL JR. '88 and his wife, Catherine, are off on their (belated) honeymoon to Tahiti, New Zealand, Bora Bora, and Fiji. When they return, the Weils will take up residence at 24 Fifth Ave., #1629, New York, NY 10011. Wayne reported that he ran into RANDY "Chakka" KAHN '91 at an interview in New York City. Randy is married to a Dartmouth grad and is finishing up his second year of b-school at Wharton (as Wayne is doing at Columbia). Wayne said that Randy sees TODD DORRIEN '89 on a regular basis.

ROSS P. WALLER '89 is at Bridgewater Associates in Ridgefield, Connecticut. He and his wife, Ann, had a baby boy on November 26. Kirk William Waller weighed in at six pounds, eight ounces. Send congratulations to 34 Cranbury Rd., Westport, CT 06880. Ross also said that Dr. FRANCIS MAH '89 and his wife, Hee-Won, celebrated the birth of their second son, Lucas, a few months ago. Their first boy, Mason, is almost two years old. Ross says, "I know that Kirk is looking forward to keeping the family tradition alive and wiping the pong table with Lucas in about 18 years."

"I finally made it out to visit DAVE AZNAVORIAN '92 in California to compete with him in the Baja Triathlon," declares BRADLEY J. JOHNSON '92, who is still in Detroit (21718 Audrey, Dearborn, MI 48124) working on his startup, Green Environmental Engineering, Inc. "Few places can compare to Hanover, but this runs a very close second—an ecological wonderland!" Brad had a great time at his fifth reunion catching up with fellow Zetes. "It was great to see that DOUG MINIATI '92 is recovering so well from his knee surgery." Brad continues his "open back door" policy, so pay him a visit—or at least send him an e-mail at bjohnson@ford.com.

"I just finished my first year of medical school in San Antonio," wrote CARL B. ROUNTREE JR. '95 in July. "For my summer vacation, I traveled to Peru and Ecuador to rediscover 'don Bart.'" Letters will find Bart at 4801 Gus Eckert Lane, #511, San Antonio, TX 78240, and e-mail reaches him at lrountree@aol.com.

We received this news from LOUIS B. TUCKER '95 recently, just a week before his marriage to Jane Anne McCoy: "I graduated BUD/S (seal school) in August. Of the 144 people in class #212 who started, only 18 of us made it. I will be assigned to Seal Team 2 as an officer this November." The Tuckers were planning to move to Virginia Beach, but until we receive that address change, write to them at 11504 Hitching Post Lane, Rockville, MD 20852.

JACK KOLODNY '96 is an associate at Corporate Decisions, Inc., 1 International Place, 100 Oliver St., Boston, MA 02114. Jack has two e-mail accounts—one at home (shaggyk@rocketmail.com), and one at work (jack_kolodny@cdiboston.com).
